Present Perfect exercises with answers

1. washed

   After have, use the past participle. For wash, it is washed.

2. bought

   After I've, use the past participle. For buy, it is bought.

3. done

   After I've, use the past participle done. Did is the Past Simple form.

4. Have

   We build the Present Perfect with have or has, not are. Your parents = they, so the question starts with Have.

5. never

   You have no experience of it, so use never. We don't use ever here, or no before a verb.

6. gone

   Anna is still at the shop, so we use gone. Been means she is back.

7. has already done

   We need has, and already goes between has and the past participle. Already doesn't go between done and his homework.

8. yet

   In questions, yet goes at the end. Just and ever don't go there.

9. have ... finished

   We build the Present Perfect with have or has, not am. With I, use have + past participle.

10. I've read your letter.

    Read is irregular: its past participle is read, not readed.

11. gone

    After has, use the past participle: gone, not went.

12. Has ... finished

    Tom = he, so the question starts with Has. Then comes the past participle finished; we don't use does with it.

13. Has your sister ever seen snow?

    In questions, has comes before the subject. Then come ever and the past participle seen.

14. been

    Three times shows trips you are back from, so we use been. Gone means you are still there.

15. already ... bought

Already goes after has, and then comes the past participle bought. We don't use ever here.

16. She hasn't called me yet.

In a negative, yet goes at the end. With she, use hasn't.

17. They've cleaned the windows.

With they, we use have: they've. Then the past participle: cleaned.

18. left

After I've, use the past participle left. Leave is irregular, so don't add -ed.

19. written ... given

After has, use past participles: written and given, not wrote and gave.

20. haven't

The question starts with Have, so the short answer is haven't.

21. been

For trips, we use been to. After have, use the past participle been; was is the Past Simple.

22. been ... gone

Twice shows trips he is back from: been. Now he is there again: gone. After has, use a past participle, not go, went or be.

23. We've already seen this film.

Already usually goes between we've and the past participle seen. Saw is the Past Simple, and we don't use ever here.

24. yet

In negatives, yet goes at the end. We don't use already in negatives, and just means a moment ago.
