Negative forms of 'be' in Present Simple

To make negative sentences using be in the Present Simple, we just add 'not' after the verb 'be'.

Singular	Plural
I am not ('m not)	We are not (aren't)
You are not (aren't)	You are not (aren't)
He/she/is not (isn't)	They are not (aren't)

The verb 'be' takes the same form in positive and negative sentences. The only difference is that we add 'not'.

- I'm not a pupil, I'm a student.
- They are not at home.
- She isn't in London, she's in Paris.
- We aren't happy about this.

Note: "Is not" and "are not" can be contracted in two ways. The subject and verb can be contracted, or the verb and 'not'.

- You are not a doctor. (full form)
- You're not a doctor.
- You aren't a doctor.

- She is not here right now. (full form)
- She isn't here right now.
- She's not here right now.

There isn't/there aren't

When we want to make a negative impersonal statement with 'there is' or 'there are', we can add 'not' or 'no' depending on the noun that follows.

- There is no money in your wallet.
- There aren't any chairs at the table.
- There isn't enough food for everyone.

Questions with 'be' in Present Simple

To make questions with 'be' in the Present Simple, we put the verb before the subject and add a question mark at the end.

Compare positive statements and questions:

BE

AM	IS	ARE
 I am 10 years old.	Am I 10 years old?
 You are nice.	Are you nice?
 He is hungry.	Is he hungry?
 This is a bag.	Is this a bag?
  That is a pen.	Is that a pen?

Yes/No questions

To create a question that will be answered with a 'yes' or 'no', put 'Am'/'Is'/'Are' (or 'Isn't'/'Aren't' for a negative question) + before the subject.

- Are you in the office? -No, I'm not. I'm still at home.
- Is she alone in New York City? - No, she isn't. She is with her boyfriend.
- Oh, are they happy to be there together?

Note: In short positive answers to the questions with the verb 'be' we use only full forms of 'am/is/are'. In short negative answers we can also use short forms of 'am/is/are'.

Special questions

Special questions (also known as wh-questions) are questions that require more information in their answers. They are made using wh- words such as what, where, when, why, which, who, how, how many, how much.

To make a special question, use the same word order as with yes-no questions but put a wh-word before the verb 'be'. The structure is:

wh- word + am/is/are + the rest of the sentence

- Where is your brother?
- How are you today?
- Why are you here?

The verb be may be contracted:

- What's your hobby?
- Why's your toy on the floor?

However, we usually do not contract a question word and the 'are' form of be:

- Where are you?
- Where're you? (not used in most situations)
- When are we leaving?
- When're we leaving? (not used in most situations)
